MY GARDEN OF MEMORIES

"Long, long be my heart with such memories fill'd!
Like the vase in which roses have once been distill'd:
You may break, you may shatter the vase if you will,
But the scent of the roses will hang round it still."¹

EDWARD HATHAWAY

SPORTS

Rifle Team

The season of 1940-41 has proven the most successful in five for the "trigger squeezers" of the rifle team. Coached by Mr. Le Cain, the squad has climbed from Class D to Class A in the National Rifle Association. By defeating North Quincy twice, Quincy has become city champion in this sport. This year, for the first time, a separate team for girls has been formed and has proven very successful. High scorers on the team were Howard Tufts, Dominic Baccari, George Robicheau, and George Wilson.

Coach Warren Findlay's first hockey edition at Quincy High completed an unimpressive season with innumerable defeats, a tie, and a sole victory behind it. The success of the campaign, however, lay in the consistent performances of the juniors, notably Sleeth and Condos, and the spirited improvement of the team as a whole. Highlighted by the Waltham tie and the Hingham win, the Quincy skaters are to be commended for their fight and courage.

Hockey

Baseball

In response to Coach Bill Sullivan's cry of "Batter up!" an enthusiastic squad of baseball aspirants took the field. The team was bolstered considerably by the return of a regular outfielder, three veteran hurlers, and an outfielder converted to catcher. With Jim Pena heading the pitching corps, the versatile performance of catcher Beston, and the splendid play of the entire unit, Quincy emerged successfully from a stiff sixteen game schedule.

Although our squad was made up mostly of sophomores and juniors, usually competing against senior teams from other schools, the boys of Mr. Anderson's wrestling team proved to be strong opponents. This year's team produced six state champions, two in Class A and four in Class B. As most of this year's squad will return, prospects for next year are decidedly good.

Wrestling

Track

Under the able direction of Coach George Wilson, the track team has given a good account of itself this season. The dashes and broad jump were particularly strong, since there were several veterans returning in these events. Each of the longer distances had at least one veteran, and a record holder, as well as several experienced men, returned in the field events. A large crop of newcomers were strong contenders for positions.

With the return of many veterans, including a large number of sophomores, the outlook for next year is particularly bright. Although the season's record was not extremely impressive, the team played well and provided plenty of competition for its opponents. Quincy was the only team to defeat Watertown, one of the strongest contenders in the state. This 1941 soccer edition was directed by the capable new coach, Russell Rayner.

Soccer

Archery

One of the fastest growing sports on the girls' program is the Archery Club, which was organized two years ago. Each Wednesday and Thursday the Robin Hoods demonstrate their shooting skill at Faxon Field. Splendid equipment is at the disposal of all members. The girls shoot in teams and sponsor a tournament at the end of each season.

Girls' basketball proved more popular than ever this year with an extra-large group reporting for practice. Monday afternoons were given over to sophomores, while the upper classes took Wednesdays. The girls organized teams and played under the able direction of Miss Lois James and student referees. An inter-class tournament was held with the sophomore team, captained by Eleanor Mariano, emerging victorious.

Basketball

Tennis

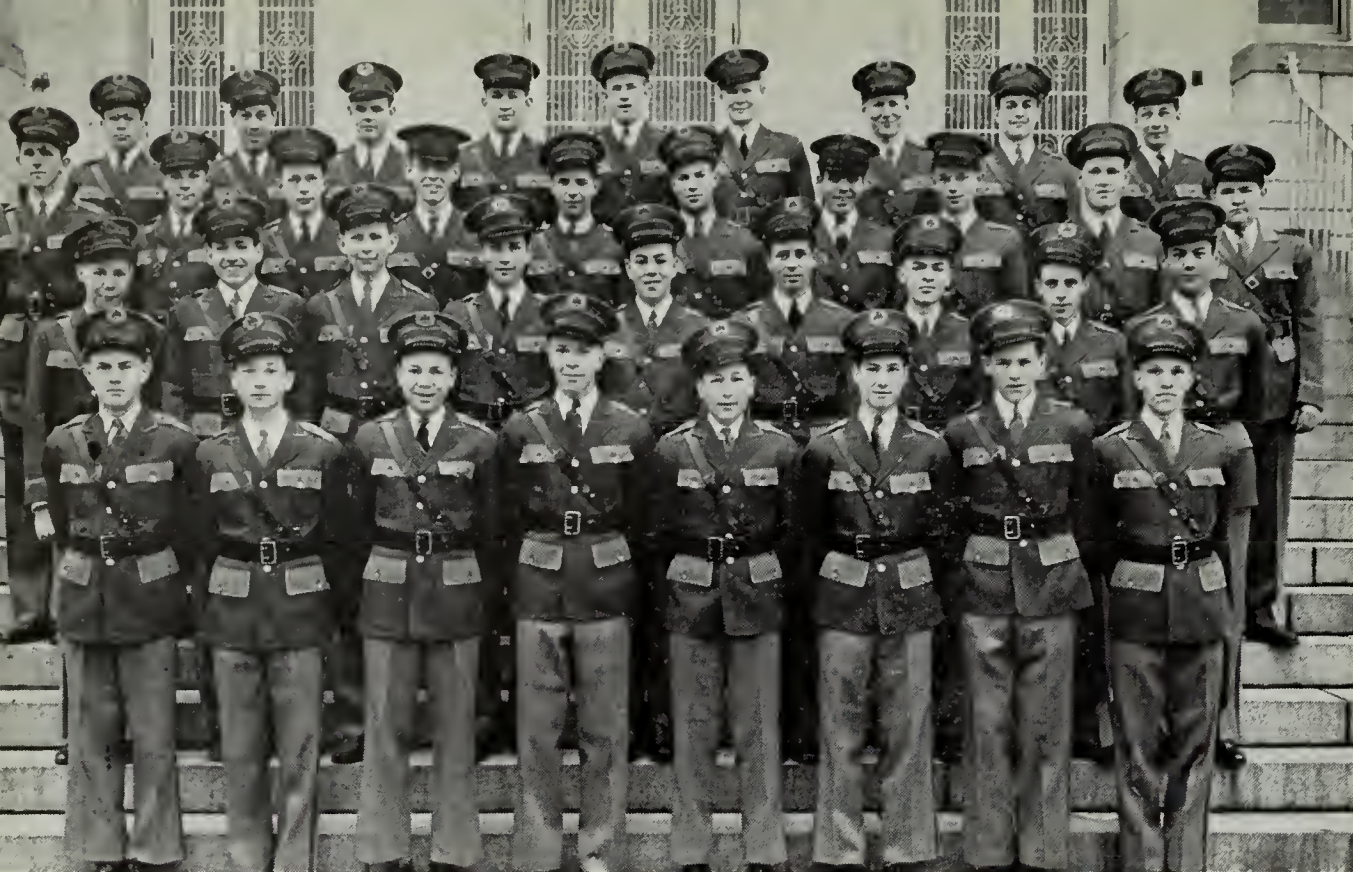

This spring an enthusiastic group of sophomore, junior, and senior girls answered the annual call of tennis. The girls were divided into two groups, the elementary and the advanced. The elementary squad spent their first few weeks in the gym receiving group instruction in basic tennis strokes, scoring, and other general fundamentals. Practice games were played in preparation for the annual singles and doubles tournaments.

Every Wednesday and Thursday a great deal of disturbance may be heard in the Y. M. C. A., for the Quincy High Girls' Bowling Teams are out for sport. There are approximately ten teams headed by captains. Individual work is being stressed this season instead of the usual team cooperation.

Band

The selection of the most colorful organization in Quincy High School must go, without a doubt, to the band. Attired in their blue and gray uniforms, the members presented a very impressive sight as they marched at the football games and helped us to cheer the team. The band also played an important part in the State Festivals, where its performance was well received

The Sailing Club has finished a very successful year. Activities included sailing trips in the spring and fall, instruction periods during the winter, and competition in the Interscholastic Races at M.I.T. Officers of the club this year are as follows: John Shuttleworth, commodore; Walter Mayo, vice-commodore; George Curry, rear-commodore; Edith Burroughs, secretary. During the spring members of the club learned many things about ship construction by helping to repair Mr. LeCain's boat.

(Golden Rod Annual)*

To the Business Staff of the Golden Rod Annual praise must be given for its excellent support, without which the Literary Editors would have labored in vain. It is they who are responsible for circulation, publicity, and soliciting. Again, laurels to our competent Business Staff!

The Newswriters are composed of groups chosen from the English classes of Miss Turner, Miss Giles, Miss Call, and Miss Goudey. It is the task of these groups to collect the news of the school each week and prepare it for the press. For the most part it is through the efforts of the Newswriters that the community knows what goes on at Quincy High School.

FACULTY ADVISORS

Miss Maude Wheeler Miss Victoria Zeller

The Girls' Club, under the supervision of Miss Zeller and Miss Wheeler, has presented a varied program this year for the large number of girls who belong. As in the past, the club coöperated with the Family Welfare Society in the Thanksgiving Drive and the Christmas party for young children. One of the most unusual meetings was a skating party, given one afternoon, with plenty of hot cocoa served to add a touch of warmth.

Girls' Club

Student Council

During the year the student governing body has been very active. Two informal dances were held, which proved to be highlights in the social season. Nobody can overlook the splendid results obtained during "Clean-Up, Pick-Up Week," which was conducted by the Student Council in collaboration with the Student Council of North Quincy High School. A vote of appreciation is due the members of this lively organization.

The Golden Rod extends its congratulations to the Debating Club, for this year it really proved what it is made of. The club won the district meet of the National Forensic League, which was held in Braintree. The debaters on the affirmative side were James Mollica and Jeanne Melville, and on the negative side Selma Brick and Peter Kanavos.

*Q-Hi
News
(Editorial Staff)*

Our weekly school newspaper, the Q-Hi News, has just completed its third year. The paper belongs to the students of Quincy High School and is written, published, and sold by them. There are many interesting articles found in the paper, and through these the staff is able to reach the interest of all students. Quincy High has every right to be proud of its paper.

Remember all those huge posters advertising the Q-Hi News? Remember the hurrying and flying papers every Friday afternoon? The Business Staff of the Q-Hi-News was responsible for all that. The Staff is made up of the following people: the business manager and his assistant; the advertising manager and his assistant; the circulation manager and his assistant; twelve district managers; forty-four home room agents.

The Page and Stage Club has been busy all year rehearsing and producing different types of drama, ranging from radio plays, pantomimes, and the Italian Commedia de Arte to the regular stage plays. One of the plays, a hair-raising melodrama, was presented to the assembly amid appropriate cheers for the hero and jeers for the villain.

The busy girls in our library go through a period of hard training before they are formally members of the staff. They receive valuable experience in library science. Miss Catherine Yerxa, the Secretary of the Division of Public Libraries, spoke to the group this year on bookmobiles, those traveling libraries which bring literature to people in rural districts.

Hi-Y

One of the most popular organizations among the boys at Quincy High School is the Hi-Y club. It is a character-building club, which strives to teach its members throughout the school and community higher standards of Christian character. To enter the club the candidate must be voted on by the older members and then pass a very severe, but humorous, initiation. Each season is climaxed by a banquet.

Gloria Caravaglio heads the able group of officers of the Tri-Hi-Y, who have conducted an enjoyable program during the year. One of the most successful meetings took place at Halloween when the club was entertained by a ghost story with all the trimmings. A doughnut race, other relay races, and plenty of refreshments completed the program. Interest was also created during the year by a few joint meetings with North Quincy High's Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y.

Tri-Hi-Y

Cheerleaders

Whenever the mighty teams of Quincy High needed a little urging from the sidelines, this urging was always sure to be brought forth by the antics of Paul Benzaquin and his corps of cheerleaders. The cheerleaders were always on hand and willing to lend their support and color to the rallies and football games. They were chosen for their general appearance and ability by Miss Martha Tikkanen, their adviser.

The Home Room Representatives is an organization composed of representatives elected from all the home rooms in the school. At their meetings the ideas and problems of the students are brought up and discussed. This is the first year that this organization has been really in effect, and under the capable guidance of their faculty advisor, Mr. Herman Noyes, we are sure it will continue for years to come.

Home Room Representa- tives

Traffic

To take care of the stream of pupils passing through the corridors, the traffic squad must be efficient. The substitutes played an important part during the "flu" epidemic. This year the squad leaders are as follows: ground floor, Joseph Christopher; first floor, Dorothy Harrold; second floor, Alice Goodwin; third floor, Harold La Croix.

The Writing Club made its début at Quincy High in the fall and has just successfully completed its first year. Meetings are held twice a month, and membership is open to all. Each meeting is devoted to one phase of creative writing, such as description, use of coincidence, characterization, conversation, plot building, poetry, and the short story. During the year members contribute original work.

Writing Club

Science Club

This year the Science Club continued from where it left off last year and went on in its pursuit of things scientific. Under the capable direction of its president, Kenneth Close, and faculty advisor, Mr. Lyons, it has done much toward the advancement of science. Besides its usual weekly meeting the club also visited the East Boston Airport. We wish the Science Club the best of luck.

One of the outstanding organizations in Quincy High School is the Glee Club. Under the joint direction of Miss Tuthill and Miss Howes the members presented excellent Christmas and spring concerts and also carried off their share of honors at the State Festival. Besides these activities the club appeared as guests of the Atherton Hough Parents' and Teachers' Association and the Quincy Blind Circle.

Glee Club

Chapel Choir

A greater touch of solemnity is always added to the weekly assemblies by the presence of the Chapel Choir. The members of this group are selected by Miss Tuthill for their general singing ability and their deftness in being able to master hard compositions with very little rehearsal. As a result of their effort an atmosphere conducive to relaxation and peaceful enjoyment is created.

The girls' honor society has been fortunate this year in obtaining many interesting speakers for its meetings. One of these was our own Miss Weeden, whose hobby is stained glass windows. She told of the process of cutting, pasting on the picture, binding, and sprinkling the lead around the glass with a hot iron. Then Mrs. Kimball showed pictures of famous stained glass windows. The Marionette show produced by Mrs. Fuller was another feature of the year.

Thalia Club

Orchestra

The orchestra, which is somewhat forgotten during the winter months, has its usual busy season in the spring. This spring it participated in the Instrumental Concert and accompanied the chorus in Gallia. But the climax of the year was the State Music Festival, attended en masse at Plymouth, where Quincy High School was represented, as always, with class A material.

The verse speaking choir, a rather new type of organization at Quincy High School, has developed rapidly during the last few years until it constitutes a well modulated and expressive choir of voices. Selections ranging from gay, humorous poems to stirring ballads have been presented to many local clubs.

FEATURES

A Garden of Memories

A bouquet of the most fragrant and exciting blossoms—a tale as stirring as anything in fiction—that is the saga of the class of 1941!

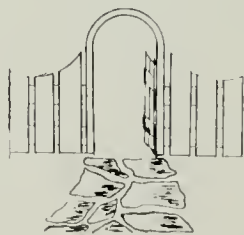

In September, 1938 (along with the hurricane—a unique touch, you must admit) the class of 1941 entered Quincy High School as sophomores. Easily accustoming themselves to their new environment, the members of the class soon elected Robert Duke and Thomas Maloney as their representatives to the Student Council. Later in its sophomore year the class of 1941 began to show its originality in the election of its class officers by the selection of the following: co-presidents, George Pahud and Bernard Ranieri; vice-president, Dorothy Harrold; secretary, Alice Goodwin; treasurer, Russel Anfinson. The Athletic Council was made up of Margaret Kay, Ernest Rounseville, Muriel Stafford, and William Tocci. Notice—co-presidents! An absolute tie for the office of class president resulted when the ballots were tabulated. This was the first occurrence of that sort in Quincy High history!

Shortly before the election just mentioned, the Q-Hi News made its debut as a weekly issue containing timely and vital news about club activities, sports, and special events. The paper was published by the Student Council and through this organization represented the entire student body.

Turning to the world of sports, again an unusual event warmed the cockles of the Quincy High heart. The football team, under the direction of Coach Munroe MacLean and Assistant Coach William Sullivan, rounded up its successful season by defeating North, 19-0, in the Thanksgiving Day classic. This game broke the spell of five years of Quincy defeats at the hands of North. Could the incoming sophomores have been accompanied by Lady Luck? After a brilliant season the Quincy High basketball team, with Munroe MacLean as its coach, entered the Tech Tournament for the second straight season. The team was defeated in its bid for the championship, but its very entrance into the Tech Tournament was a matter of no small importance.

An outstanding event on the musical calendar was the presentation, in late April, of the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta Yeomen of the Guard by the school glee club and orchestra. Sophomores who received much applause for their laudable portrayals of leading roles were Chester Roher, Dorothy Sinclair, and Eleanor Wohlander.

And very soon that dreadful (or was it?) year as sophomores was at an end, and time partly closed the gate in our garden, leaving behind delightful memories.

With an abundance of goldenrod in its path the class of 1941 returned to Quincy High School in September, 1939 as upperclassmen—juniors, to be exact.

The Student Council, with Robert Duke, Thomas Maloney, Richard Murphy, and Dorothy Sinclair as representatives of the junior class, stepped into its routine of hard work for increasing the benefits given to the student body. A great portion of its efforts was directed toward the solution of the cafeteria problem, presented by congestion and the untidiness of careless students.

Practice in the various fall sports was begun almost immediately. The Quincy High football team gained four victories, suffered three defeats, and shared two ties during its successful season. To be sure, Quincy was defeated in the last game of the season against North, but there were more seasons to come, and with the Victory Dance (for North, anyway) all grievances were soon forgotten.

With an original touch the music department substituted a Christmas concert for the customary Christmas play. This change in the program presented by the glee club and orchestra was enthusiastically received, and the beautiful music greatly enhanced the Christmas spirit.

For the second year the Q-Hi News undertook the task of presenting the latest school news and did so with marked success. Thus the Q-Hi News was established as an integral part of Quincy High School.

In March the junior class elected the officers of the class of 1941. The winners of the election were as follows: president, Joseph Christopher; vice-president, Dorothy Harrold; secretary, Alice Goodwin; treasurer, Harold La Croix; Athletic Council, Margaret Kay, Bernard Ranieri, Walter Spencer, and Muriel Stafford; Pin and Ring Committee, Sery Coletta, Nils Lundin, and Janet Wilson.

Again the music department offered another different feature. In place of the operetta, which was regularly presented in the spring, the glee club and mixed chorus, accompanied by the orchestra, presented a cantata, "The Holy City," with guest soloists. This new feature was given a warm reception by the general public and proved to be a decided success under the able direction of Miss Howes and Miss Tuthill, who are so capably in charge of the activities of the music department.

This pleasant year, crammed with studies and fun, was marred by one slight imperfection. A thunder storm trampled a few of the most choice blossoms in our garden of memories when the freedom of the senior Class Day was taken out-of-bounds by some over-enthusiastic students. In spite of this sad event the junior year was a busy and happy one for the class of 1941, and with the prospect of our last glorious year in Quincy High School we beheld the gate in our garden more nearly swung to.

At the first traces of autumn in 1940 the senior class of 1941 returned to Quincy High School for the last time.

The busy school season included a unique Parents' Night. Parents and their children were able to listen to various occupational lectures, given by an expert in each field. A forum period was held at the end of each talk, an addition which proved very satisfactory.

Early in the school year the field of sports received attention. The football team had a fine season, gaining five victories and experiencing three defeats and one tie. The Thanksgiving Day game with North was necessarily postponed until the following Saturday due to the impudence of an unwelcome blanket of snow and ice. The result of the game was a scoreless tie, but the future looms dark and ominous for our adversary. The Quincy High basketball team entered the Tech Tournament after a brilliant season of thirteen victories and two defeats, but it bowed out to Rindge Tech in the first round.

At Christmas time the music department again won volumes of praise because of the splendid Christmas concert, presented by the glee club and orchestra, assisted by a group of elementary school children. The entering processional of candle-bearing choristers was pronounced very effective.

Shortly after Christmas the Q-Hi News, with John Loria as Editor-in-Chief, began its third successful year. To the Q-Hi News a bouquet of golden-rod (the Quincy High orchid), fastened with blue and white streamers, as a token of its splendid work and for its future success!

Earlier in the year the class of 1941 chose the following representatives of its class to the Student Council: president, Thomas Maloney; vice-president, Arthur Mazzola; secretary-treasurer, Dorothy Sinclair; George Hodgkins, William Tocci, and Walter Younie. Thomas Maloney is an outstanding member of the Student Council since, in addition to his office in the Quincy High Student Council, he is also the vice-president of the Eastern Division of the Associated Body of Student Councils of Massachusetts High Schools. This position automatically makes him a member of the Board of Directors of the Student Councils of the State of Massachusetts.

At the end of its stroll in the garden the class of 1941 approached an ivy-covered wishing well in a shady nook. Tossing a coin into the mystic depths of the well, the class wished for good luck and success in the years to come. Catching therein the reflections of the Class Reception on June 6 and a unique Class Day, the members of the class of 1941 moved on and gently closed the door in their garden of memories. But one flower has grown through the stakes in the garden gate and brings with it the pleasant remembrances of by-gone years, our own Golden Rod!

I like dogs! But is a high school any place for a canine visitor? I believe the answer to the question lies in the motive for the visit.

There are many kinds of dogs which enter these immortal gates, and each one comes for a different purpose. Any person who follows the canine situation closely can easily learn to classify dogs, not only as to breed, but as to personality.

Type one is the dog who comes mainly to gain more knowledge, be it in the world of music or that of public speaking. This type is rarely found in the human race. You can usually discover this group in the assembly hall, in an English class (the only type ever found there), or in modern language classes (they believe in a broad education). Any close observer of dogdom may easily distinguish these intelligent dogs by the slight uplift in the ears, the erudite (smart to you) expression in the eyes, and the general familiarity with which they greet all precocious persons.

Shall we go on to type two? This class of dogs is that which has the blank expression on its face, the mildly anxious look in its eye, and the inquisitive nose, which can easily poke into a paper bag. Dogs of this type are concerned mainly with what one has for lunch and how much they can benefit thereby, a ham sandwich here, a cup cake there. That hungry look stamps them immediately and induces many young females to curl up, shrink, or actually remove themselves and their lunch to a less precarious locality. This type is not satisfied with receiving fond pats and other caresses but demands something to satisfy the appetite. Their curiosity can sometimes be transferred to the point of examining stage equipment, microphones, etc., and in this respect this kind of dog is often coupled with type one.

Type three is the sponge, vagabond, or hobo type (depends on your vocabulary). This sort of dog wanders, sleeps, or generally does as it pleases until some he-man directs it with a firm, determined hand to the nearest exit. You can tell this type immediately by the droopy ears, listless tail, and weary slouch (sometimes known as the college-course creep).

Realizing that a high school is an institution of learning, we are forced to admit type one. To do otherwise would be to contradict all laws for the betterment of education.

Moreover, since a school is a place where intellectual curiosity is satisfied, we must accept type two, but only when combined with type one. We don't mind curiosity when applied to intelligent pursuits, but from a cold, wet nose in an appetizing lunch we recoil.

But what of the hobo? As usual, society offers him no refuge from the storms of life. We must turn him away until he changes his character for the better. Possibly he can some day offer us a type four?

Juniors

The class of 1942, from the point of view of the seniors, seems to be very promising. As leaders for their final year, they have chosen the following: Fred Moorhouse, president; Barbara Pinkham, vice-president; Ruth Eng, secretary; and Robert Runius, treasurer.

The Pin and Ring Committee, consisting of Barbara Johnson, Louise Sheriff, and Robert Tong, is a capable combination.

Jean and Jane Bussell, James Papile, and Peter Kanavos deserve a pat on the back for the fine work they have done as members of the Student Council.

In the field of sports Glenn Fleisher and Frank Saldi again brought honors to their class in basketball along with Robert Nankin, a new member this year. To the football squad this class contributed Walter Pecce and Romolo Salvucci along with several others.

The junior class does not lack good-looking girls. Ruth Mac Beth, Frances Burns, and Mary Elizabeth Clark made an excellent impression in the Girls' Club style show.

There are many other pupils of outstanding ability who will help to make the class of 1942 successful seniors. The class of 1941 wishes you luck.

Sophomores

Last September saw the class of 1943 making its initial appearance in Quincy High School, and since that time many of its members have become prominent in school affairs.

Sophomores who have proven themselves valuable participants in sports include Craig Capaccioli and Dante Di Bona, football; Guido Pettinelli, Augustine Pena, and John Mathieson, basketball. Mr. Sullivan also has several potential sophomore stars on the baseball squad.

The class elected the following group of officers to lead their activities during the year: Walter Milliken, president; Jeanne Melville, vice-president; Eleanor Di Tullio, secretary; Donald Cattanach, treasurer.

The Student Council gained two fine members when the sophomores elected Edith Moberg and Rita Roach as their representatives.

1943 certainly has displayed a fine spirit during the year, and the school is justly proud of them.
